EMILY BARROSE is founder and CEO of Bold in Business, an online coaching program that teaches professionals greater confidence in business. As a leadership consultant, Emily has expertise in developing leaders, strategic planning, negotiation, change management and cultural diversity. Emily is known for her ability to facilitate strategic and cultural change to drive sustained business growth and for building high performance, innovative cultures. She is adept at building successful teams of diverse leaders at all levels.

She developed her track record of executive success while working in leadership roles in the publishing industry and nonprofit world. She has more than 30 years of hands-on experience building businesses in competitive, fast changing industries. As a Vice President; Editor in Chief at McGraw-Hill, she was responsible for setting strategy for a $500 million digital and print education business. In that role, she drove tremendous growth through a radical redesign of strategy and the creation of a new entrepreneurial leadership team.

Emily has negotiated thousands of contracts in her roles as an editor, publisher, and editor in chief in the publishing industry. Her experience also includes managing large teams in complex negotiations in the area of corporate partnerships and acquisitions.

In addition to her negotiation and sales expertise, Emily is a keen listener and communicator, and an excellent coach in the area of developing diverse entrepreneurial leaders. She is particularly passionate about working with and advancing women and minorities at every level in organizations.

Emily has an undergraduate degree in Communication from the University of Delaware. She lives outside of Washington, D.C.

SUSAN LEVIN is founder and president of Dialogue for Solutions, a global consulting firm providing coaching, facilitation, training, mediation and organization development services. She has worked with thousands of employees from a variety of organizations for more than 30 years, focusing on maximizing individual and organizational strengths to make a positive difference and get results.

She has led leadership programs for women, including programs in Bosnia and Russia. As a certified coach, Susan has worked with leaders at all levels to help them uncover their own wisdom to find the answers they need. As a mediator certified by the Supreme Court of Virginia, she facilitates dialogue between people in conflict so that they can find new ways to resolve their mutual problems. She delivered training for students and faculty to facilitate dialogue groups on race, age, culture, gender and violence at the University of Virginia. Some of her other clients include the United Nations, US Agency for International Development, National Institutes of Health and Daimler/Mercedes Benz. In addition to receiving a Faculty Excellence Award from the Graduate School, she is a contributing writer to the book,

The Insider's Guide to Supervising Government Employees. She has a master's degree in International Affairs from the George Washington University.

JULIE SALGANIK For nearly 20 years, Julie has worked as a consultant, facilitator, and coach with leaders in complex global organizations who are building and managing critical relationships internally and externally. She is founder and differences and lead their organizations to achieve results. Her experience includes organizational strategy and process, and individual learning and development. Before Avance, Julie was Senior Consultant with Vantage Partners LLC, working with clients to build negotiation and relationship management capabilities.

Managing Principal of Avance Global Consulting, where she works with clients to more effectively manage

With corporate clients, Julie helps enable effective collaboration (internally, and externally with suppliers, alliance partners, outsourcing providers, key customers, and government agencies/regulatory bodies). She has helped align key customer account strategies; enabled internal functions to implement strategic and structural change; prepared teams for high-stakes negotiations; designed and delivered programs for new leaders; and developed high-performing talent. With non-profit organizations, Julie works with clients to develop business plans, define target markets and services, and adapt their organizations and leadership to fulfill their missions. She also coaches non-profit leaders working to drive change, improve their management skills, and resolve conflicts.

Julie holds an MS (Foreign Service) from Georgetown University, with a focus on managing transitions in emerging markets, and an MA (History) and BA (History and International Relation) from Boston University. She speaks English, Spanish, and native Russian, and is learning Portuguese.
